Public defender submits resignation

By BRENT MACEY

Hancock County Indigent Public Defender Yvonne Chapman Sills has submitted her resignation to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

The board is expected to act on the matter when it meets Monday at 9 a.m. in the Hancock County Youth Court offices in Bay St. Louis.

Sills, in a letter of resignation, states the caseload of work and the irregular hours required to fulfill the duties of the part-time job, interfered with both her private law practice and her family life.

Sills is the first person to hold the position since it was created last year. She requests the resignation become effective Nov. 1, 1982.

Senior Circuit Court Judge Leslie Grant has selected Bay St. Louis Attorney William Frisbie for the position which pays $12,000 per year.

That recommendation must also be approved by the supervisors.

County superintendent halts student fund raisers pending policy approval

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County School District school organizations can not undertake any fund raisers involving students until a policy is formulated to regulate such activities.

Terrell Randolph, superintendent of education, Tuesday informed the County School Board at a Saturday morning meeting that he would not approve any requests for conducting fund raisers involving students until the board adopts a policy which he will formulate.

"We have to have a strict policy because the people in the public get tired of so many fund raising events," he stated.

Louie Ladner, a board member, heatedly told the superintendent, "If you don't approve of a request then don't send it to the board!"

Randolph had included three requests in the Saturday meeting agenda for the board's approval school fund raising events, but the superintendent would not endorse the requests.

Woodrow Ladner, board vice president who chaired the meeting, noted the board had previously adopted a policy regulating the sale of food items at county schools.

Sue Dean, district office secretary, reported a group wishing to conduct a fund raiser involving students must fill out a form at the district office in Bay St. Louis.

Randolph told the board, "I'm telling you now I'm not going to be responsible for a fund raiser."

Louie Ladner shot back, "Yes you are. Don't get cold feet now!"

Randolph replied he would either approve all requests or none at all.

The superintendent said such activities vary in the degree of student involvement.

"Some are conducted during school hours and sometimes students will leave the campus in automobiles," he reported.

"I'm not going to approve any fund raiser, but I will write a policy and present it to the board," Randolph stated.

The heated discussion erupted when the board was considering requests by the Gulfview Elementary School Parent-Teacher Committee to conduct an Oct. 28 Halloween carnival at the school to raise funds to air condition the facility and Gulfview students to sell 'candlewear' on Oct. 28 to generate money for the school.

No formal board action was taken.

Another argument between Louie Ladner and Randolph began when the board also considered a request by Hancock North Central High School junior class members to allow them to raise money for a Spring junior-senior prom.

The superintendent again said he would not ok the request.

Ladner threatened, "You may not get a policy approved!"

Susan Buckley, an HNC teacher and yearbook advisor attending the meeting, reported students at the high school are planning to also sell the candlewear.

She suggested fund raisers be coordinated districtwide so schools would not compete in selling the same merchandise.

"You would have a better response from the community if they would space out these fund raisers during the school year and not have them all at one time," Buckley also suggested.

LOUIE M. LADNER

Ladner eyes re-election in Beat 3

Louie M. Ladner is seeking re-election to the Hancock County School Board as District Three's representative.

He is 31, a life-long resident of Hancock County and married to Lorette Ladner. They have two children, Rhett, 11, and Arlette, 8, who both attend Hancock schools.

Ladner graduated from Hancock North Central High School in 1969, attended Pearl River Junior College and completed four years of electrical training through the Electrical Workers Apprenticeship.

He has been employed by electrical contractors for 13 years through the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local No. 903 in Gulfport of which he is a member.

Ladner states, "I feel I have gained valuable experience in my term on the board. I have worked hard and educated myself about the operations of good schools."

"I've attended National, Southern, Regional, State and Gulf Coast School Board Association workshops and seminars. This is the first time Hancock was even represented by board members at these meetings," he says.

"We have improved academic scores, facilities, operational policies and work staff during my term," Ladner reports.

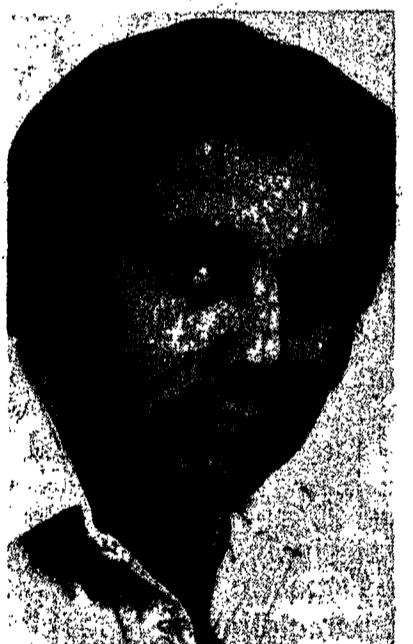

"I've learned that the school board is a policy making body. I'm looking forward to working with all the board members and superintendent to continue to write good policies and enforce them firmly. Then we will have less interference within our school operation," he states.

"I've gained confidence in doing the job, so vote Nov. 2 with confidence that I will do the job well with what I've learned," he adds.

By BRENT MACEY

Keesler to fete military retirees

Keesler's annual Military Retiree Appreciation Day is slated Saturday with retirees from all military services being invited to visit base facilities that will be open for business just to serve them.

The day's activities will begin that morning with a series of briefings to update retirees on various programs affecting them, including CHAMPUS, the Civilian Health and Medical Program for the Uniformed Services; legal assistance, health services, survivors assistance, and Social Security.

These briefings will begin at 9 a.m. at Croswell Theatre, located on Larcher Boulevard.

Throughout the day, two especially designated buses will operate continuously on a prearranged route, allowing visiting retirees to leave their cars in one parking lot while easily visiting the Officer's Club, Croswell Theatre, the base exchange, commissary, NCO Club, medical center and the Consolidated Base Personnel Office in Sablich Center, and then return.

Retirees may park near any of these facilities and ride the bus to other locations.

Beginning at 10 a.m., there will be a CHAMPUS question and answer session in the lobby of Keesler Medical Center, with a CHAMPUS representative available to answer specific questions.

Pamphlets on nutrition will be available, and medical technicians will be on hand to check blood pressure.

Between 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., glaucoma testing will be conducted, and throughout the day the pharmacy will be open to fill prescriptions for retirees, including those written by civilian physicians.

Also in the medical center, the Red Cross will have a booth staffed by volunteers to answer questions about the Hospital Volunteers Program.

In Sablich Center, the Personal Affairs Office will be open to help retirees change retired pay "allotment" requests, provide casualty counseling and answer questions about student loan programs available to children of Air Force retirees.

Also in Sablich Center, the customer services section will help visitors to complete paperwork needed to renew identification cards for Army and Air Force retirees and their families.

People needing this service are reminded to bring their DD Form 214, marriage certificate, and children's birth certificates.

At this stop, families will also be able to enroll in the Defense Eligibility Enrollment Reporting System.

Leaving the customer service section, visitors will have the opportunity to receive new ID cards or re-register their vehicles on Keesler at the Security Police Squadron's Pass and ID Office.

To register vehicles, the visitors will need their ID cards, drivers license and state license plate number, and will also be asked to sign a statement that they have liability insurance.

Retirees visiting from Alabama who want to register their vehicles on Keesler and have Alabama state license plates must also have a Mississippi state inspection sticker before registering.

While still in Sablich Center, retirees may also visit the newly opened Retired Pay section, which can request information from the Air Force's central computer handling retired pay in Denver, to answer any questions.

This office will also help visitors to establish dependency for families, parents, parents-in-law and disabled children.

Special luncheons are planned for retirees in three areas on Keesler.

Both the Officer's Club and NCO Club will serve special Retiree Day Buffets in their dining rooms, with prices of $4.75 in the Officer's Club and $4.50 in the NCO Club.

The base exchange, in addition to their normal cafeteria service, will have a tent near Croswell Theatre where ribs, hamburgers, hot dogs and snacks will be served.

Other activities honoring retirees will include special prices on many items in the base exchange and commissary, music by Keesler's 502nd Air Force Band and the Blue Knights Drum and Bugle Corps at various times on the steps to Croswell Theatre, and the availability of representatives from various service agencies, near the theatre, to discuss problems peculiar to military retirees and their families.

CPR TRAINING—Bee Gallegos, a Red Cross CPR-Multimedia instructor, shows Bay High School 10th grade student Jeannelle Launey how to conduct Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation on a practice dummy loaned by the Waveland Fire Department. CPR classes are offered once a year and started Monday. Gallegos said she will teach four classes for one and one-half weeks depending on how her 200 Bay High students progress. The class is required for everyone taking physical education, she said. In addition to classes at Bay High School, Gallegos will also be teaching at Bay Junior High School and Hancock North Central later this year. First aid will be taught at those same schools beginning next February. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Money Talk

By Norine Barnes

End-of-season sales may offer some real bargains in basic items of clothing such as lingerie, blouses, skirts, pants and coats. But, the smart buyer keeps one thought in mind — why the item is on sale.

Be alert and find out why it reached the sale rack. Is it going out of style? Check fashion magazines, read fashion articles and attend fashion shows to be "up" on the style trends.

If style doesn't matter to you, and you could still get a lot of wear from the garment this season, it could be a good buy.

Check to see if the item is damaged, soiled or shopworn. Before you buy a soiled garment, check carefully to see what caused it. Some soil and stains are difficult, if not impossible, to remove.

Is the construction of the garment shoddy? If all it needs is restitching of seams, replacing buttons or rehemming, the garment could be a good buy.

Is the item labeled as irregular or seconds? Irregulars have imperfections of color, size, weave or knot which probably will not affect the wearing quality of the garment. Seconds have flaws such as a mend, tear or run which usually show and affect wear. Examine each garment carefully before buying.

Is the garment a special purchase item? Some stores buy merchandise especially for a sale. However, it usually is not the same quality as their regular merchandise.

If you need the garment, if it fits in your present wardrobe, if it fits you and is becoming, then the sale item should be an economical buy.

Remember, in order to be a bargain, the garment should fill a need. A sale item is no bargain if you get it home and it's a color that doesn't go with anything in your wardrobe.

One very easy way to know if an item is a good buy is to have a list of items which will extend your wardrobe. As you make or purchase new clothes, put a small scrap of fabric in a "match-it" bag in your purse. In ready-to-wear, snip a small piece of fabric from a seam, hem or facing. You will always have it with you so you will know if the clothes on sale will coordinate with other items you already have.

Kiln man elected

Truman T. Cook Jr. of Kiln was recently elected to membership in the American Angus Association, reports Dick Spader, executive vice-president of the national organization with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri.

The American Angus Association, with some 38,000 active life and junior members, is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on nearly 10 million registered Angus.

The association records ancestral information and keeps records of production on individual animals for its members. These permanent records help members select and mate the best animals in their herds to produce high quality, efficient breeding cattle which are then recorded with the American Angus Association.

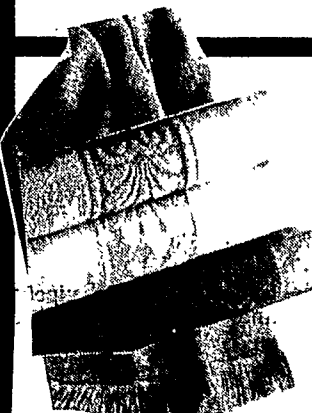

Most of these registered Angus are used by the U.S. farmers and ranchers who raise high quality beef for U.S. consumption.

Many of us seem to take our vehicles in for state inspections at the appropriate times.

We noted several persons receiving citations from state troopers last week for expired brake tags, drivers licenses and auto tags.

It is a good idea for everyone to check their licenses to make sure they are all up-to-date because a citation will cost you a lot more.

On Tuesday night there will be a very important Governor's Forum on Education and Economic Development.

This forum will be at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College, Jackson County Campus on US-90 in Gautier.

The main purpose of the meeting, beginning at 7 p.m., is to emphasize the dependence of economic growth upon quality education and to encourage stronger support for public education.

This will be the ninth and final forum to be conducted in the state and we hope many persons from Hancock County will attend.

We, like many Mississippians, are tired of being reminded that we are the last in everything.

Plans are underway for the Annual Memorial Day Parade on Nov. 11 sponsored by Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 in Bay St. Louis.

A new parade route will be announced due to the renovations underway on Main Street.

We realize Tuesday, Nov. 11 is a bit off but, we urge every veteran to try and attend these special services in Bay St. Louis.

More information will be supplied as final plans are completed.

We are hoping the Hancock County Board of Supervisors will go through with plans they are now studying regarding microfilming of records in the Courthouse.

We know we have had trouble searching for records for our Heritage Editions which were lost when the Hancock County Courthouse in Gainesville burned in the early 1800's.

This was well over a 100 years ago, but microfilming wasn't around at that time and so much of our history was lost forever.

Applications are now being accepted from Hancock Farm Bureau family members for the annual queen and talent contest on Oct. 27 during the annual Hancock County Fair.

Hancock County's senior talent winner Robert Guidry, after winning the local contest, took the district title and ended up second in his division statewide.

The queen contest is open to high school seniors of Farm Bureau families and the winner will be crowned by 1981 Queen Bernadine Necaise.

The talent contests are divided into three categories which are juniors up to age 12; seniors, 13 through 16; and intermediate, 17 years and older.

Persons or groups interested may telephone Nell Koenenn at 255-7055 or 255-1205.

We just hope enough people in the State of Mississippi will contact their state senators and representatives so they will push for stronger education.

In Gov. William Winter's visit to the DuPont Plant this week, a DuPont official mentioned how some 5,400 persons were rejected for jobs because of a lack of a proper education.

This type of thing happens quite frequently, and until Mississippi gets its educational system in line with other states, we will continue to lose jobs.

Winter has pushed for better education, and when 42 percent of the residents do not graduate from high school, something is wrong with the system.

Our governor needs the support of everyone, so let's all push for better education.

We know the majority of the coastal legislators are for better education, but if you know legislations from other areas of the state please encourage them to support the governor's efforts.

MINNEAPOLIS STAR AND TRIBUNE

Small-business Angle

by Wilson S. Johnson

"The current economic condition of small business is grim." So begins the Quarterly Economic Survey of the National Federation of Independent Business for the second quarter of 1982. The survey continues: "There is no evidence in either small-business performance over the second quarter or small-business expectations for the third quarter to support the proposition that the current recession is about to end."

Continued employment reductions, a record-low number of job openings, high interest rates, inventory decumulations, capital cut-backs, disinflation in selling prices, and stagnant earnings characterized the second quarter for smaller firms.

That survey included the responses of more than 2,000 small-business people in all 50 states. The situation did not improve in the second quarter and the third quarter does not look much better. There is frustration among business owners with whom I talk.

Most wonder when federal policymakers and Congress will recognize the cause of the problem — a problem they have created. Small-business people understand it! Huge deficits, an incredible disregard for common-sense fiscal practices and, above all, the desire to be re-elected.

Recently, I wrote a letter to some 500 small-business people, asking them to give me their views of the present economic situation. So far, I have received responses from more than 300. Almost to a person, they say high interest rates are their principal concern.

They complain about the lack of sensitivity to economic problems displayed by members of the Congress. They urge further cuts in government spending — including the previously sacred cows — defense and Social Security.

One man wrote, "The current economic situation has brought most business to a standstill. All types of clients...connected with my business are in bad shape. Consequently, my business is on the verge of bankruptcy, and it might be by the time you receive this letter."

He wants all government actions to be "evaluated, weighed and determined on the basis of positive influence on interest rates."

Too many in Congress do not understand or are unmoved by the fact that small business is the nation's principal source of new jobs and employs more than half of all workers.

The most recent action to increase payroll taxes (specifically the federal unemployment tax) came almost simultaneously with the release of employment figures on small business for the second quarter.

They were down for the 11th consecutive quarter. And they will not rise until their businesses are fully recovered.

The concluding paragraph of another letter I received makes my point: "If the federal government would concentrate on what it can and should be doing, i.e. controlling federal spending and taxes...I feel the economy would take care of itself."

At present I hear a lot of rhetoric, but I do not see any action. If we do not get any relief from these problems, it is down hill to the finish."

(Wilson S. Johnson is president of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.)

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

A recent ad, with some items below cost, didn't produce much. What's the problem?

Dear WTP: Maybe nothing, maybe a lot.

Low prices are generally a strong draw for customers, but many factors can affect response.

The possibilities include: 1) Nobody wanted any; 2) Nobody wanted any then; 3) The regular price may not be well enough known for your price to be attractive; 4) The items may have been too low ticket (inexpensive) to draw much response, etc.

Low prices, or we should say, lower prices, have come to be such a common appeal in the market place that some consumers tend to think in terms of saving dollars, rather than cents. And many have come to realize the futility of going out of their way to save only a few pennies.

So price alone may simply be an insufficiently strong inducement to attract customers to your store.

What may be additionally necessary is a Unique Selling Proposition described in a handbook on Writing Advertising That Sells, by Mallickson and Nason.

They suggest a number of such motivations, including:

Special Purchase (as a carload sale)

A Spectacular Event (outdoor circus tent)

Live Celebrity Visit

Exclusive Availability

First Time Availability

A Special Service (free installation, free service for one year)

Promotional Event (chance for a big prize)

Borrowed Interest (displays of art, new autos, etc. in your store)

Joint Promotions (as between a lamp store and book store)

Coupon Offerings

These devices not only attract attention, but also may overcome any suspicion of the low prices you are offering.

So, the only thing lacking in your promotion could be a central focus on some special proposition or additional attraction.

Used in conjunction with low prices, one, or a combination of these plus factors should result in regular promotions that work.

For example, a drug company line has done well with its one-cent sale; others have established similarly successful brand name events.

Once special promotions have been established as regular events, you can expect better and better results as your customers begin to anticipate and ask for them.

This is not to say you must have a "unique selling proposition" in every promotion, but if the more conventional approaches don't work, it's worth a try. Your local newspaper has clip services with a wide variety of stock illustrations for special events, or you can come up with your own.

State Bar Association defines parental rights

POINT OF LAW
Termination of Parental Rights
Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar

Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your rights.

While parents have an inherent right to control and care for their children, this right is not absolute. Under extraordinary circumstances affecting the welfare of the children, the State can intervene to terminate the rights of unfit parents.

Mississippi law identifies six situations under which parental rights may be legally terminated:

1) The parents may execute a written voluntary release relinquishing all rights to the child; or a court may terminate parental rights if:

2) A parent has deserted a child without means of identification, or abandonment and made no contact with the child for a period of time (six months for a child under three, one year for older children); or

3) A parent has been responsible for a series of abusive incidents concerning one or more children; or

4) When the child has been in the care and custody of a licensed child caring agency for at least one year, the agency has made diligent effort to develop and implement a plan for return of the child to its parents, then such plan has failed due to the fault of the parent, or the parent has failed to exercise reasonable available visitation with the child; or

5) A parent exhibits ongoing behavior, such as alcohol or drug addiction, severe mental deficiencies or mental illness, or extreme physical incapacitation, which makes the parent unable to assume minimally acceptable care of the child, and makes it impossible to return the child to the parent's care and custody; or

6) When there is an extreme and deep seeded antipathy by the child toward the parent or when there is some other substantial erosion of the relationship between the parent and the child which was caused at least in the form of the parent's serious neglect, abuse, prolonged and unreasonable absence, unreasonable failure to visit or communicate or prolonged imprisonment.

The rights of the parent can never be taken away so long as the child is properly cared for, but if one or more of the above grounds exists, any person, agency or institution may file a petition for termination of parent rights in Chancery Court.

The Courts are reluctant to remove children from parental control except upon the most convincing proof of necessity.

The Court will hear all of the evidence in regard to the petition and shall terminate all parental rights only if satisfied by clear and convincing evidence that the situation holds within at least one of the six specific categories.

Once termination of the parental rights has been decreed, all rights of the parent concerning the child are severed. The parent does not even retain a right of visitation.

The rights of the parents to the custody of the minor children is a natural right of parenthood and is supported by law and public policy.

Child caring agencies should make an effort to help the parents rehabilitate themselves before attempting to cut off all parental rights.

Other affirmative alternatives, such as legal custody and guardianship of persons other than the parent, must be pursued with parental contact or in the best interest of the child.

Parental rights should only be relinquished as the last resort when all other alternatives have failed.

CONSUMER REPORT

BILL ALLAIN,
ATTORNEY GENERAL

Attorney General Bill Allain reports he has intervened in the Mississippi Power and Light Company rate increase hearing in behalf of the state and all other consumers of electricity.

Allain said, "I do not believe the Mississippi Power and Light Company is entitled to a 94 million dollar rate increase."

Mississippi Power and Light Company has already been granted a 49 million dollar increase in 1980 and is presently in court seeking 20 million dollars more. Due to advanced science and technology, I would think that the Mississippi Power and Light Company would be able to lower utility rates rather than raise them."

Continuing, Allain said, "Since the consumers are not making any more money, they cannot afford to continue to pay more for their utilities each year. The utility companies are going to have to do something to control their costs so they can live within their budgets like the consumers have to."

In this connection, Allain said he would again recommend to the legislature that rate increases under bond be abolished, that utilities be required to advertise for and contract with the lowest bidder for all construction and major purchases, and to create a state division or agency to fight utility rate increases.

Allain continued to express his desire that if the Governor calls a special session of the legislature this fall that these recommendations be considered during that session.

In conclusion, Allain said, "MP&L has again lived up to its motto, 'Always There.' They are always there before the Public Service Commission asking for another huge rate increase."

Psychologist sees communication difficulties between spouses

By DR. SUSANNA
ANDREWS
COMMUNICATION TIPS

Because we come from such different childhoods and backgrounds, we all view the world in various ways.

Any two people can share many common views, and the reverse is also true: two people can view the same situation and relate entirely disparate accounts.

A psychotherapist experiences this phenomenon all the time when two spouses are asked to describe a single event.

First one relates the incident, then the other.

Were they not together, acknowledging that they were describing the same event, often the therapist would not be able to ascertain that fact. So, when two people talk to one another, they are not necessarily communicating precisely what they had hoped to communicate.

In fact, the intended message often does not come through at all, but what does come through can be any number of things: an unconscious thought, expressed through behavior (facial expression, tone of voice, eye contact or avoidance, body posture); a totally erroneous interpretation based on a misunderstanding of what the communicant said; or a negative inference of a communication that was innocently stated from an unusual frame of reference.

An "unusual frame of reference" would be a way of seeing the world that is so different from another's that the two people are practically speaking a foreign language without knowing it.

If you say something to me that offends me, it is probably true to conclude that if I said the same thing to you, I would intend to offend you. However, the same ideas and values that offend me may not offend you.

One can see how complicated communication really becomes, and how easily one can be hurt or insulted by the words of another.

Of course, sometimes people do say things to one another purely to offend or to hurt. More often, however, in love-relationships, it is because of genuine misunderstanding that most hurt occurs.

When we stop to consider how truly different all our backgrounds have been, it is little wonder that we sometimes have to work quite hard to understand (and to believe) what our loved-one really meant to say.

Listening skills are essential to a good relationship. When there is difficulty with communication, there is difficulty with listening and hearing.

At times, when the listener is highly skilled, even unexpressed feelings can be heard through a verbal expression.

This is often the role of the psychotherapist: to allow the individual to understand and listen to his or her own feelings, and to encourage the individual to listen to and express those feelings, once they are acknowledged.

Many individuals are not even aware of their own feelings, and therefore cannot clearly express them to another.

In learning to listen and to communicate more accurately, there are several clear steps that one can follow. The first involves learning to listen. This is perhaps the most challenging aspect of the process of communicating, for in order to listen, we often must suspend our own attitudinal belief system and "try-on" another's.

We have to "pretend" that the other person is stating the truth as he or she sees it. We have to put ourselves in their shoes and try to figure out how they are feeling and how they actually experienced what they are relating.

Secondly, to insure that we are understanding, it is a good policy to reflect what we think we heard.

In other words, if a wife of 24 years said to her husband, "You never talk to me anymore, or spend any time just with me," the husband could respond defensively: "I do spend time with you when I can. I just have to work so hard."

Or, he could go on the offensive with: "Well, you're not a lot of fun to be around yourself," or, "If the house were a more pleasant place to be, maybe I'd be home more often."

Another response would be to discount or ignore her: "That's ridiculous. I'm always home whenever possible. You're exaggerating."

The response that would facilitate communication and open up the channels would first be some type of a reflection, to insure that he really received the message she intended to communicate.

Some examples would be: "It sounds like you are feeling alone and hurt, and that you would really appreciate it if I tried to spend more time with you and the family," or, "You seem to believe that I don't want to spend time with you and the family and that I am avoiding being with you."

At the same time that he reflects on the feelings and ideas expressed, it is also helpful to communicate his feelings: "I'm upset to hear that..." or, "I'm so surprised that you feel that way, and I don't want you to feel that way. I never intended to hurt you."

The expression of one's own feelings about what is said is the third step.

The above examples are just a few examples of listening and communication skills that can actually be learned and perfected through practice.

Many psychotherapists and clinics offer communication workshops for couples, management, or any individual who needs to listen and express more effectively.

There is not one aspect of our lives that is not affected by communication. Expanding our skills in this area actually entails expanding our awareness of human behavior and motivation, and we often are required to rise above petty selfishness to extend ourselves into the world of the other.

If we believe that there is only one truth or one reality, we are isolating ourselves from a majority of life experience.

Surely, the little girl who is born into a white, middle-class, Deep South family and educated in private schools will have very unusual attitudes compared to the Chicano girl who grew up in Los Angeles during the Watts riots and attended the public schools in their chaos.

Both these girls would also have a strange set of ideas and attitudes compared to the Jewish girl from New England who attended the local prep schools, preparing for Vassar or Radcliffe.

Then, one can compare the differences in world views simply by growing up male as opposed to female, even if all other variables were held constant. The differences in parental and societal instruction to the boy growing up and to the girl are monumental.

Both conscious and unconscious expectations are communicated from birth to death, and many of our struggles involve our own emancipation or embracing of these expectations.

Even if husband and wife or two loving friends came from similar backgrounds, just having different sexes suggests differing ways of viewing the world.

Then, when two people try to talk to one another, they hear messages that were not intended; they read between the lines and draw conclusions that are misled; they disbelieve; they become defensive at what they thought they heard, and attack back to spare their own feelings.

Many arguments originate this way, and the couples are "off to the races," with no way to stop the increasing hurt. Once an argument gets to this point, it is helpful to call a truce and to attempt to discuss the problem when feelings have cooled off.

The actual issue may seem petty, but if feelings have gotten that heated, there is a truly significant issue underlying.

Pretending that there is no problem other than the superficial issue only insures that many other "superficial" issues representing the same underlying problem will reappear, and the same argument will ensue.

However, attempting to deal with the underlying feelings and beliefs, although threatening, is the beginning of recovery and healthy communication.

It takes courage to risk and to try to understand; it takes courage to show compassion and empathy, when you yourself are feeling attacked and vulnerable.

But, it is also exhilarating to approach this life as a challenge, and to have enough belief in yourself to recognize that you chose this spouse or this friend for a very good reason.

If you believe in yourself, then try to believe in your choice and to learn to listen to his or her wisdom. We do not have to agree to listen.

There is no real threat in trying to understand, unless we really fear who we are and what our motives may be

WHAT ABOUT THE RIGHTS OF VICTIMS?

When a thief breaks into your home and robs you or destroys your property, you suffer a real loss.

When he's caught and convicted, the criminal may be sent to jail to pay his debt to society. But what about his debt to you?

Who pays to fix your house? Who pays to replace your valuables?

It just doesn't seem fair that you or your insurance company should have to pay. Especially when the guilty person has already been caught and convicted.

Make The Criminals Pay.

Why not make the convicted criminal pay for the damage he did?

You can. That's what victim restitution is all about. It's a law recently passed by the Mississippi Legislature.

But long before it became part of the law, James Thomas was working to make victim restitution a vital part of our criminal justice system.

They'll Think Twice Before They Act.

"Equal protection under the law is the foundation of our democracy. But sometimes it seems like criminals are more equal than their victims."

"I feel that a criminal should have to pay for any damage he's caused his victims. As Assistant District Attorney, I've routinely recommended that restitution be made a part of the sentencing of criminals."

"As Judge, I'll administer justice fairly, firmly and impartially. So criminals will think twice before they act."

He Has The Experience We Need.

James Thomas has spent his career in the judicial system of Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties.

He grew up in South Mississippi the son of Christine Thomas and the late L. E. "Tommy" Thomas of Gulfport.

After graduating from U.S.M., he earned a law degree from Ole Miss and went to work as a lawyer in private practice.

Now he lives in Biloxi with his wife Sue, a Biloxi schoolteacher, and their 3-year-old daughter Tiffany.

He's In Touch With The People.

As Assistant District Attorney, he's worked for all the people in Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties for nearly a decade.

He's prosecuted hundreds of cases in the very courtroom he'll preside over as judge.

He knows the law. He knows how our Circuit Court works. And he's in touch with the people he serves.

On November 2nd, let's elect James Thomas, Circuit Court Judge.

Tigers sting hornets 21-0

By BRENT MACEY
The Bay High School Tigers rolled past East Central Friday 21-0 in a game which testified to some of the Tigers' longest running gainers of the season and quarterback David McIver's first touchdown pass of the year.

The game started off with a roar for the Tigers who carried three times following a Hornet punt to travel 60 yards into the endzone.

Tiger Darren Smith received the first Hornet punt of the game and carried the ball eight yards to the Tiger 40.

On first down, running back Charles Hawkins carried up the middle for a 15 yard gain.

Mike Proulx, who started as the Tiger quarterback in place of McIver, then kept the ball on the next first down play and galloped around the left hand side of the Tiger line to the Hornet 30 yard line.

On the next play Proulx carried to the right side, spun off several Hornet tacklers and waltzed into the endzone.

On their second possession the Tigers came close to scoring again.

Hawkins broke loose on a first down play and raced 34 yards to the East Central 26.

However, Bay High stalled after the long running play and the Hornets took over on downs on their own 18 yard line.

Neither team could manage a score in the second quarter. But in late in the third quarter the Tigers began to roll again.

After taking possession on their own 26, Tiger tight end Michael Lewis ran for six yards and then broke loose for a 30 yard run. A two yard run by Lewis moved the ball to the Hornet 40 yard line.

On second down, McIver rolled to his right, and sailed a pass into the arms of split end Mark Johnson who was inside endzone.

Mark Davis kicked the extra point, one of three good PAT's he kicked that evening, to put the Tigers out in front 14-0.

In the fourth quarter the Tigers final touchdown came after Lewis recovered a fumble on the 15 yard line.

Proulx, who carried nine times for 71 yards, crashed through the Hornet defense to the four yard line.

Lewis got three more yards and then jumped the Hornet defense into the endzone from one yard out.

In the waning seconds of the ball game, the Tigers almost scored again.

On a fourth down and two yard play on the Hornet 42 yard line, McIver passed to Lewis on the flat who streaked toward the endzone.

Some 10 yards outside the goal line, Lewis evaded a Hornet tackler, but the defender crashed his helmet into Lewis' left knee.

Lewis managed a couple steps toward the endzone before falling to the ground.

Head Coach Snuffy Smith noted Lewis will consult a doctor this weekend to determine the extent of the injury.

The speedy Tiger runner carried 13 times to total 58 yards Friday.

Hawkins totaled 66 yards in four carries and Harold Gillum carried five times for 29 yards.

McIver had his most effective passing game of the season; passing 12 times, and completing four for 100 yards including the 40 yard pass to Johnson for the second Tiger TD.

The Tigers fumbled three times and lost all three. East Central fumbled seven times and lost four.

The Tigers totaled 339 yards for the evening as opposed to the Hornets' 76.

Smith noted the Tigers played one of their most consistent ball games of the year, making few mistakes and allowing only four penalties for 35 yards.

Jr. Tigers tie East Central 14-14

The Bay Junior High School Tigers were tied 14-14 by the East Central Hornets Thursday night in Tiger Stadium in a tough contest between the top two Deep South Conference ball clubs.

On the opening kickoff, Jeffery Crawford returned the ball 75 yards for the Tigers' first score. The PAT run by Willie Lewis was good.

East Central scored in the second quarter on a pass play, but failed on the PAT attempt. The Tiger second touchdown was the result of a 12 yard pass from Jeff Smith to Matt Fairconnetue. The PAT from Smith to Todd Mannion was not good.

In the fourth quarter East Central connected with Wells for their final touchdown.

A successful PAT tied the ball game.

The Tigers now lead conference play by one-half a game.

East Central is second with one loss this season.

On Oct. 28, the Tigers will travel to Hancock North Central for their final contest.

"If the Tigers win, they will clinch the Deep South Conference," Bay Junior High Head Coach Cleveland Williams stated.

"The Hawks are a tough ball club. I know that they'll be up for the Tigers. Coach Shaw and his ball club have been playing better ball each week," he said.

The Tigers have next week off and will be preparing for their final contest.

HNC Jr. Hawks down Vancleave

The Hancock North Central Junior High football team defeated Vancleave Thursday 21-0 in Vancleave with Hawk running back Nathan Davis scoring all but one of the Hancock North Central points.

In the first quarter Davis scored on a 35 yard run. Duke Thomas kicked the point after attempt.

Neither team scored in the second quarter.

In the third quarter Davis scored again, this time on an 11 yard run. In the fourth quarter he scored from four yards out and ran the two point conversion successfully to put the Hawks out in front 21-0.

The Hawk defense recovered three fumbles in the contest with Johnny Bourgeois, Brian Necase and Terry Malley taking the honors.

Hawks Stanley Jordan and Desmond Hoda each had an interception for the evening.

Head Coach Tim Favre noted the Hawk "crunch" defense has given up only 34 points in six ball games.

Next week the Hawks, with a 3-2-1 season record, will travel to Mercy Cross for a 7 p.m. game.

Tomcats overpower Rocks, 42-9

By RANDY PONDER
Stone County exploded for three touchdowns in the first 10 minutes of play and lasted to an easy 42-9 rout of the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw Friday in Higgins.

It was a tough one. They were ready for us," Rock-A-Chaw coach Powell stated.

Stone County's first drive was a 100 yard burst to the endzone.

Quarterback Anthony Harris, who was named the one of the best players in the state, passed interception.

Stone County's advantage was the Stone County defense. Harris, who was named the one of the best players in the state, passed interception.

Stone County's first drive was a 100 yard burst to the endzone.

another TD at the end of a 58 yard march.

A perfectly thrown 31 yard bomb from Harris to Darryl Tillman accounted for the Tomcats' final tally of the opening half. Randy Geiger split the uprights on each conversion attempt.

On Stone's one other series before intermission, Tillman dropped a sure touchdown pass at the Rock five as the Tomcats stopped themselves.

St. Stanislaus managed only two first downs in the first half. Both were the result of Stone penalties. One for roughing the passer and the other for roughing the punter.

In the third quarter, a high snap from center on a Rock-A-Chaw punting situation resulted in a Stone County first and goal at the Rock 3.

The St. Stanislaus defense dug in and stopped the Tomcats on three downs before Steve Hartfield broke through on a fourth down play to give Stone its final score.

The almost successful goal line stand seemed to fire the Rocks up and on their next possession moved to the Stone 37 before a series of miscues forced a punt.

Stone was then unable to advance and St. Stanislaus took over on downs at their own 47.

Ten plays later the Rocks had averted a shutout with an 11 yard halfback pass from John Killeen to Joby LaBruzzo with 3:12 left in the Deep South Conference game.

A two point conversion attempt by quarterback Matt Scardino was stopped inches short of the goal and the Rocks settled for six points.

The ensuing onside kick was successful as the Rocks covered on the Stone 37.

St. Stanislaus got as close as the Tomcat 14 before having Russ Betcher boot a 35 yard field goal to end all scoring in the football game.

Stone did not have to punt in the game.

"This had to be one of their best executed games of the season. They did not make any mistakes," Powell commented. "They did everything right. This is the best team we've seen."

The Rocks suffered injuries to Jimmy Thriffley, Jordan Bradford, Jerry Kelly, and John Robinson. "Hopefully none of our injuries are serious, I haven't received the doctors report," Powell explained.

"We played everybody on the team. All the boys got some game time." The Rock-A-Chaw coach added.

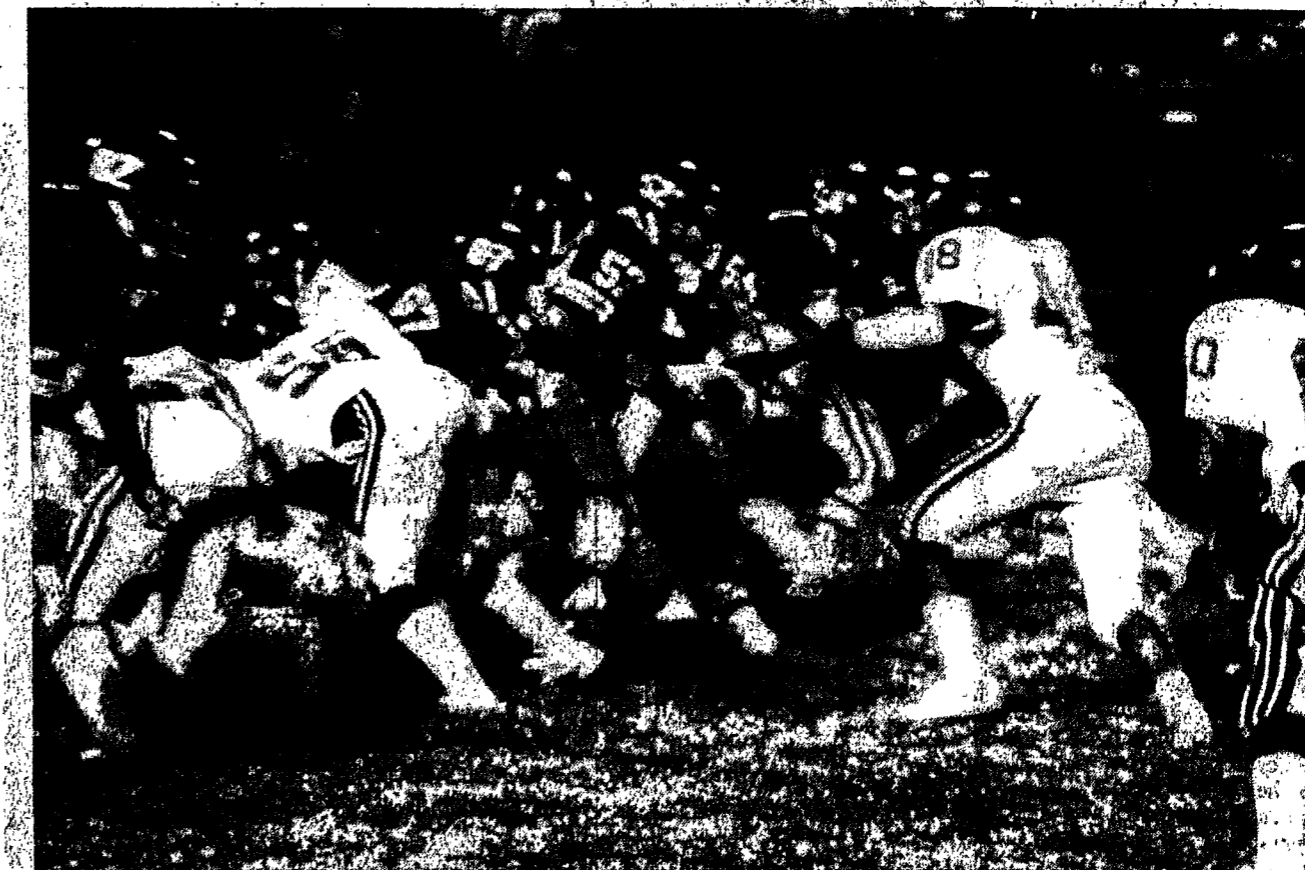

St. Stanislaus is 0-7 on the season and will travel to Wade to face East Central Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Stone improved their record to 5-2 and will play Poplarville next Friday.

First football victory

Hawks tame Bulldogs 16-0

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Hancock North Central Hawks dominated the Vancleave Bulldogs Friday by scoring a 16-0 victory in a physical high school football game.

Hawk Head Mentor Irvin Favre said, "This is our greatest victory, if I am not mistaken, it is the first victory we have ever scored over the Bulldogs in high school football."

"We were ready for Vancleave, the victory is a team effort, every player gave his all. This was a very physical game, as all contests are with the Bulldogs," Favre added.

Vancleave tried several times throughout the game to score only to be foiled by superb team and individual efforts by the Hawks.

The Hawks first score of the evening was setup on a four yard punt by Vancleave which was partially blocked by Rodney Rester in the first quarter.

The Hawks defense controlled Vancleave's offense who had taken the ball on their own 20. They later had to punt from the 12 with Rester getting his hand on the ball which went straight up off Phillip McMillan's foot.

Three plays later Lydell Curry scooted to his left for a 12 yard score with 3:11 remaining in the first stanza.

The Hawks confused the Bulldogs on a fake PAT with Quarterback Scott Favre tossing a two pointer to Mark Santalla.

The officials kept busy tossing flags throughout the game with Vancleave being penalized 110 and the Hawks 90 yards. HNC registered their first first down of the game with 9:51 remaining in the second quarter to start a drive on Hawks own 23 for a second score.

The big play of the drive was when the Hawks had a third and 24, Favre hit Cedric Goff for a 53 yard pass.

Favre topped the 12 play drive with a three yard score after sharring some nifty running with Santalla.

The PAT which was moved back because of a delay in the game, was a two pointer by Santalla after he was hit by a host of Bulldogs and struggled carrying three of them over the goal line.

The Hawks second TD was scored with 6:10 left in the second quarter.

The rest of the game was a defensive battle with Vancleave threatening several times only to be thrown back.

When the final buzzer sounded the last play, Favre was carried off the field by jubilant Hawks.

Vancleave threatened late in the second quarter only to be stopped when Santalla intercepted a pass on the Hawks 16 yard line. He also intercepted another Bulldog pass at midfield in the fourth quarter.

The Hawks threatened another score when Favre tossed a long pass to Goff on the Bulldog one yard line. The play was called back for ineligible player down the field.

Goff stole a McMillan pass deep in Hawks territory to close down a Bulldog threat late in the fourth quarter.

Gary Fricke lofted seven punts for a 37 yard average in helping contain Vancleave.

First downs were even at eight with the Hawks at a 159-68 yard advantage in rushing, and Vancleave leading in passing yardage 101-53.

When the game ended Favre stated, "Everyone did such a fine job, it is hard to single out an individual player. When Curry was thrown out of the game, (the officials also ejected Bulldog players), the rest of the team pulled together and went on to score another TD. Scott (Favre's son), did a good job, as well as Dennis Lacoste who was back after injuries."

"You have to play just as physical as Vancleave to beat them, I really do not like to play this type of game, as someone could get hurt," Favre allowed.

Favre continued, "We had been playing flat in earlier this season, but we were up for this one and will continue next week for our Homecoming against Mercy Cross."

"I never thought we would shutout Vancleave, it feels very good to be the winner," the coach continued adding, "My coaching staff has to be congratulated too, as they also did their job."

Saturday morning Favre still elated over the victory said, "We had no major injuries, just a few bruises. The Hawks can still shoot at a respectable season."

Hancock's record is now 3-4 overall and 3-2 in the Deep Conference Play.

After next week's Homecoming tilt against Mercy Cross, the Hawks will journey the following week to tangle with the Bay High Tigers in Bay St. Louis, closing out their regular season hosting Pearl River Central.

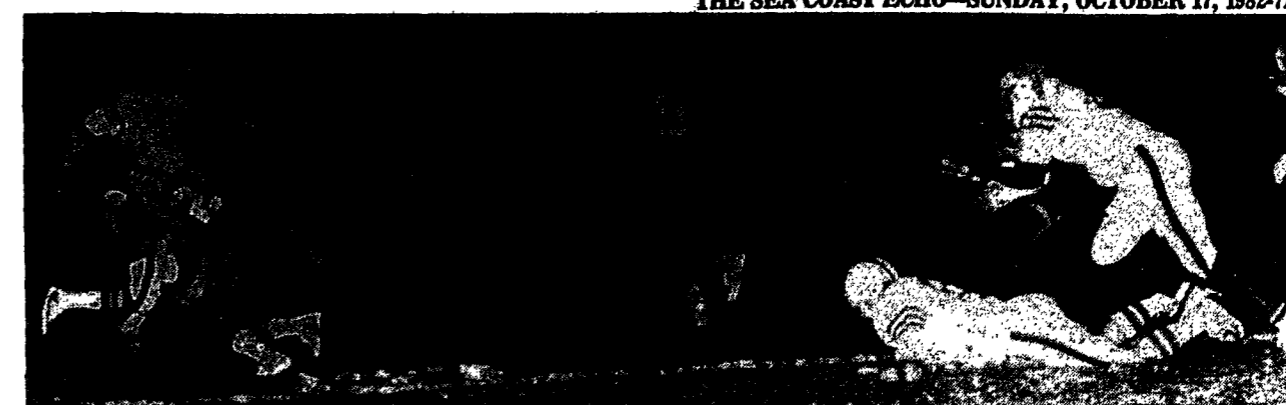

FISHING Facts & Fancies

Choosing The Right Line

You may think you have the perfect excuse for when that big fish gets away during your next fishing outing. "The line broke." With all due respect to the fish, it's up to you to keep your line in A-1 condition... and that means knowing when to replace it.

In general, the lighter the line, the more often it needs replacement. Line in the four to eight pound test range should be changed daily when under heavy use; 17 to 20 pound test line needs to be changed only after eight or ten fishing trips. The key is to inspect it regularly.

Favre's right to help creat large hole. An inspired Hawk team closed the door on Vancleave in scoring a 16-0 victory at HNC stadium. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Supervisors considering microfilming county files

By BRENT MACEY

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors are considering having all county records microfilmed by a Metairie, La. company.

In addition to the microfilming, copies of original canvas bound deeds and records in the courthouse would be manufactured. The new copies would be bound in volumes which would allow individual pages to be taken out and copied by a photostatic copying machine.

Hancock County Chancery Clerk E. Michael Necaise recommended the action be taken. He noted the canvas bound record books are old and many of the pages are brittle.

When people need to copy a page from the book, the book must be opened to the desired page and laid flat on the machine, Necaise said. The book bindings are weakened, and corners of some of the pages sometimes tear off and are lost.

He noted no extra copies of county records exist, and if any disaster struck the courthouse, all records would be destroyed forever.

John Clark, a salesman from Southern Microfilming Company, stated, "If anything happens to the books downstairs then we can manufacture another book from the microfilm."

He said the microfilm could be stored in a fire resistant vault at his company's office or a repository selected by the supervisors.

Clark said the company's vault will not protect the film from floods; however, if the film is dried within a week, it would not be damaged.

The board asked Clark to submit bid specifications for the project and tabled action until they are received.

Also at the supervisors' meeting, the board agreed to purchase a 'Intercom 5000" for $475 from Power Conservation Systems. The unit is expected to reduce electrical consumption by 10 to 15 percent; however, if it fails to do so, Sales Representative David Darling said the company would refund the purchase price.

In other action at the meeting, the board agreed to distribute some 249 cases of cheese and 93 cases of butter at the County Fairgrounds on Longfellow road beginning at 7 a.m. Oct. 28. Individuals who have received vouchers from the Welfare Department and Social Security office are eligible.

counselor was ordered in four cases, suspended commitment ordered in two, and restitution ordered in two.

Deputy Clerk Jeannette Drummond said four youths were remanded to custody of the Welfare Department and one was transferred to Circuit Court.

Of 23 new referrals to the court during the month, six were initiated by parents or guardians, one by the Welfare Department, one by court personnel, five by Bay St. Louis police, three by Waveland police, six by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, and one by Louisiana State Police.

The court levied fines in the amount of $350 in September.

King of the Hill sets bout

King of the Hill Productions will present a fight special Friday and Saturday, Dec. 3 and 4 in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi.

Billy Lyons, local promoter, says this show will include fighters in several weight divisions.

"We have used only heavyweights and light heavyweights in our previous shows, but a lot of lighter fighters have expressed interest in competing, so we will accommodate them in this show," Lyons states.

The promoter reports many fight fans in the area have also requested that the smaller fighters be allowed to compete.

"The actual weight classes to be used will depend on the number of fighters that register in each division," Lyons explains.

The promoter indicates he expects a large field based on the number of inquiries received.

Cash prizes will be awarded in each weight division represented.

Registration will begin Monday, Nov. 1, in the King of the Hill office on the first floor of The Factory Seafood Restaurant at 1500 East Beach in Biloxi.

Reserved seats on the coliseum floor will be $10 and $8. General admission will be $5 and children under 12 will be admitted for $3.

An announcement will be made when the tickets go on sale.

Bay Junior Auxiliary to sponsor school check for scoliosis

Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary will begin its yearly screening for scoliosis in the public, private and parochial schools of Hancock County Tuesday.

The group is working in conjunction with Dr. Tomas Flores, orthopedist at Hancock General Hospital.

Scoliosis is a lateral curvature of the spine, a deformity that causes discomfort, if not permanent disability for its unluckier victims.

Some of the warning signs are: one leg longer than the other, uneven hips, a prominent scapula, unlevel shoulders, a section of bulging ribs.

The best way to fight scoliosis is through early detection. Although the disease can progress in adulthood, the best medicine is to catch it in the juvenile growing years before deformity worsens.

The Junior Auxiliary urges all parents to sign the permission slips that are being sent home by their children, so that their children may be checked for this disease.

Parish News

The promise of marriage is announced for the second time between Erin Aline Maurice and Rudolph Benedict Shears of Brooklyn Naval Base in New York.

Attendance at our religion classes for public school children has been very poor. When children do not come regularly it makes it difficult for the volunteer teachers to prepare for the classes. These parishioners are giving of their time and talents to share their faith and knowledge with your children.

Parents, please see that your children attend every week. You are the first teachers of your children and our volunteer teachers are trying to re-enforce the values you are instilling at home.

Your children are indeed the leaders of tomorrow. All the teachers are asking of you is your cooperation for the benefit of your children. Remember, Confirmation classes are every Sunday after the 9 a.m. Mass. No one will be allowed to be confirmed unless he or she has been attending religion classes on a regular basis.

Parishioners are invited to a Mission Festival at St. Augustine Seminary today at 11 a.m. and ending at 6 p.m.

Softball games include Bay Firefighters vs. Police Department, the Hancock Sheriff's Department vs. Diamondhead Security Service and winners of both games.

Basketball games in the Seminary gymnasium will feature the Church League. Pony rides will be given on the grounds. Come out and enjoy a day of relaxation, fun, food and games!

St. Rose Catholic Youth Organization will meet Monday at 7 p.m. Officers will meet at 6:30 p.m.

The Little People Choir will practice Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. and the Gospel Choir will meet at 6:30 p.m.

Next week the second collection will be for missions of the church. Join Pope John Paul in sharing your faith with a world in need. By your prayers and sacrifice, you will touch the poorest of children, refugees, lepers, outcasts, just the people Jesus would want us to serve today.

The pastoral journeys of Pope John Paul II have taken him the equivalent of four times around the globe. The Holy Father says this experience has deepened his conviction that above all else... "the world needs Christ." "And," he says, "the world needs you because you belong to Christ."

The Propagation of the Faith will see that your sacrifice reaches the poorest areas of the Missions so that the love of Christ may be felt throughout the whole world. Thank you!

MASS SCHEDULE
Daily, Monday through Saturday, 6:30 a.m.
Saturday (Vigil) at 6 p.m.
Sunday, 7 and 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Novena Devotions to Mother of Perpetual Help at beginning of Tuesday Mass.

Confessions are heard half-hour before weekend Masses and upon request.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." — John 10:10

By Sharon Murphy

So many times in life I've been guilty of blaming God for not answering prayers that I haven't prayed.

But now I'm convinced that God answers prayer... all prayer! Of course, as any concerned father his answer is not always an unqualified "Yes, my son, you may have anything you want." It is a bit presumptuous after all to think that we always know what's best for ourselves.

His answers therefore may justifiably vary. He may give a wholehearted "Yes!" Or he may give a flat "No." And I'm convinced the answer to many of my prayers has been a very loving "Not yet."

Does that mean I am compromising on the idea that God always answers prayer? Indeed not. I simply mean that God has the right to vary his answer as he looks after us, his children.

Here are several references from the New Testament. "Ask, and it shall be given you... for every one that asketh receiveth..." Matthew 7:7,8.

"Again I say unto you, that if two of you shall agree on Earth as touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of My Father which is in Heaven. Matthew 18:19.

"And whatsoever ye shall ask in My name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. John 14:13.

"If ye abide in Me, and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you. John 15:7.

"If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God... and it shall be given him." James 1:5.

There are many other verses from the Bible that could be quoted in reference to asking, but really James summed it all up when he said, "...Ye have not, because ye ask not." (James 4:2).

And yet there remains one aspect that we so often refuse God the prerogative to decide whether or not our request is justified.

Jesus said, "Which of you fathers, if your son asks for a fish, will give him a snake instead? Or if he ask for an egg, will give him a scorpion? If you then, though you are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father in Heaven give the Holy Spirit to those who ask Him!" (Luke 11:11-13).

And so the Biblical principle remains. That is, that God only gives good gifts!

Perhaps the next time you or I pray, we should ask for wisdom to know just what we should pray for.

World's Most Spectacular Sights

The picturesque stone amphitheater is in the heart of a thick grove of eucalyptus trees. The spot is a point where the River Jordan emerges from the Sea of Galilee.

This site is called Yardenit and it's the area where Christian pilgrims can be baptized in the Jordan, just where Jesus Christ is said to have been immersed by John the Baptist.

Yardenit has been developed by the Israel Government Tourist Corporation with the assistance of donations from other countries. A major donor has been the Calvary Chapel Services of California, which gave 20 percent of the more than $300,000 needed for the project.

Pastor Chuck Smith, founder of Calvary Chapel Services, was accorded the honor of being the first to use the new baptismal pool at the recent dedication of Yardenit.

THE MORMONS

Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints

Elder Bruce R. McConkie of Salt Lake City, Utah, a member of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, represented the general authorities of that church in creating a new stake in the Gulf Coast Area at a meeting in the Biloxi Chapel Oct. 10.

Thomas R. Bosley of Bay St. Louis, who was sustained as the first counselor to the stake presidency of the new stake, reports that the new unit will be officially named the Gulfport Mississippi Stake. Bosley further explains that the two local units, the Waveland Ward and the Pearllington Branch will be part of the new stake, and other wards from Biloxi, Gulfport, Piquette and Orange Grove complete the stake organization.

Bosley adds that the total membership is approximately 2,000 persons.

The stake president who will preside over the new organization is John Scott, a member of the Gulfport Ward and a computer training specialist at Keesler Air Force Base.

Bosley, a member of the Waveland Ward and a safety supervisor at Martin Marietta, will serve as first counselor to Scott, with Theodore Badger of the Orange Grove Ward and a hospital administrator at Gulfport Memorial Hospital serving as the second counselor.

Bosley explained that each of the members of the new stake presidency have previously served in various ward and stake leadership positions.

Increased membership in the several wards and branches which comprised the Mobile and Hattiesburg

Stakes allowed the transfer of four wards previously assigned to the Mobile Stake and three congregations formerly within the Hattiesburg unit to comprise the new Gulfport Stake, Bosley continues.

Bosley noted more than five million members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints worldwide are organized into more than 1,300 stakes and approximately 200 full time missions.

Stake organizations exist in all of the 50 states and in 48 different foreign countries, Bosley added.

Ricoh KR-10 Spells Quality, Value

I received a very pleasant surprise in the mail the other week. It was a 35 mm SLR camera, a "lower end" machine built by Ricoh, one of the largest camera and optical manufacturers in the world.

Built to appeal to the amateur picture-taker (and priced likewise), the KR-10 promised to be a no-frills machine that did only one thing: take pictures of quality at a moderate price. The surprise was that the camera turned out to be much, much more.

In fact, after just a few days of playing with the camera, I found myself so impressed that I decided to trust it to take a majority of photos at the weddings and receptions of two friends. Equipped with the Ricoh Winder-1 and an impressive 35-75 mm zoom lens, it handled superbly.

But I'm getting ahead of myself. Back to the camera. The KR-10 is an auto-exposure SLR featuring aperture priority. That means that when the camera is set in the "auto" mode, you simply select a lens aperture and it automatically chooses the right shutter speed for the amount of available light.

Sound too simple for your needs? Well, the KR-10 also features a fully manual exposure camera with a completely wide range of shutter speeds from 4-1/1000 second plus bulb and flash sync at 1/60 second.

On the upper left-hand side of the camera is the ASA setting dial, a wide enough range to handle just about any film. There's also a convenient exposure compensation dial to give plus/minus two f/stops of compensation for shooting strongly backlit or spotlight subjects.

On the upper right-hand side of the camera is a short-throw, very sure feeling film advance lever with two different start-off positions. With the lever in either of the two positions, you need only push the shutter-release button lightly in order to activate the three through-the-lens cadmium sulfide (CdS) cells. A needle in the viewfinder aligns with the required shutter speed, and a green indicator shows shutter speed selected, as well as flash sync and low-battery warning.

To lock the camera and shut down the meter, you simply push the film-advance lever flush with the camera body. That's a nice feature which will prevent accidental exposure.

seconds, about as long as my Contax RTS at more than twice the price.

Other features of the KR-10 include a self-timer (up to approximately 10 seconds) and a flash hot shoe for electronic flash, including Ricoh's new dedicated model XR-240. The flash unit signals full recycling with a red light visible in the finder eyepiece.

In the field, the camera functioned flawlessly. Its sleek design and light weight make it a joy to use. While it's easy enough to hold on its own, adding the Winder-1 gives additional gripping power via an "action grip" which projects outward across the right-hand front of the camera. A conveniently located shutter-release button on the top of the grip facilitates either single-frame or continuous shooting at the rate of two frames per second. Suggested list price with 50 mm f/2 XR Rikenon lens, $349.95.

The Ricoh KR-10 is an impressive SLR, even more so when equipped with XR Winder-1 and SR-240 dedicated flash.

posures and battery drain.

Internally, the KR-10 is just as impressive. It features a vertically moving Copal CCSE electronically controlled, metal, focal-plane shutter. On "auto" setting, the shutter delivers a continuously variable range of speeds from 1/1,000 second to an advertised 8 full seconds, although the camera I tested ran a full 16

Money Talk

MAKE A WILL

To make a will or not to make a will—that is the question facing consumers and families.

Calvin Coolidge's will was short and to the point — "I leave my entire estate to my wife, Grace and I request she be appointed executrix without bond."

Why make a will?

—Your property can be distributed according to your wishes.

—Cost and time for settling the estate may be reduced.

—An executor can be named.

—Family quarrels may be avoided.

—Guardian may be designated for minor children.

When should you make a will? Now, while you are still alive. Review your will if it has been made for some time.

Divorce, death, birth of another child, and disposal of property are some of the circumstances that should encourage a review of the will.

If you want to change the will, don't mark over it, but get your attorney to draw up a codicil. A codicil is a supplement, addition, or change in a will and is made and witnessed just like the will.

Where do you start? First, you need to take an inventory of the property you own. List the property you own, how it is owned, and estimate its value.

Be sure that you legally own all properties that you are considering in your will. Some jointly owned properties you have may transfer according to the deed and cannot be willed. Select an attorney in whom you have confidence. Ask your friends and associates for recommendations.

Go over your deeds and property titles with your attorney. Prepare a net worth statement listing your assets and liabilities before going to your attorney. Be sure to give full names and addresses of heirs.

List the debts you owe and the debts owed to you.

Give some thought to who you want to be executor of your estate before going to your lawyer. The executor will have the authority to execute the affairs of the estate.

The duties of the executor include retaining a lawyer, setting up a record of accounts for the estate, collecting and paying bills for the estate, handling all the paperwork for the estate, helping with the distribution of property and filing tax forms and paying any taxes owed.

Having a will is important! Make yours this week!

Nature series continues with 2nd Condor segment

The Second hour-long installment of the three-part film exploring the wildlife mysteries of the Andes Mountains airs Sunday, Oct. 17 at 7 p.m. over METV, Channel 19 or Channel 13 on Hancock Cable.

"Flight of the Condor" cameras take viewers to the coastal deserts of Chile and Peru; to the lomas forests and salt flats of the Andes highlands; to the waters of Lake Titicaca; and to a great series of natural basins called the Altiplano. The "Condor" segments are part of METV's 13-part series, Nature.

The cold waters off the Pacific coast of South America are among the richest in the world and they support huge colonies of cormorants and boobies — the famous guano birds.

Sealions abound in the surf, but the shore is the driest desert in the world. Yet it is not at all devoid of life.

The cameras capture lizards creeping down to the tideline where they snatch morsels between the waves; seagulls flying 40 miles into the desert in order to nest; and the condor searching the beaches for carrion before returning to its roost high in the mountains.

Viewers will also see vampire bats flying out of their caves at night to feed on the blood of sleeping sea lions. The cameras move northward to Peru where, in areas completely shrouded by fog for more than half the year, trees are able to grow, drawing moisture from the air alone.

In the Chilean desert where it rains only once every seven or 12 years, the sands suddenly blossom with brightly colored flowers, creating one of the greatest spectacles in the natural world. "The Flight of the Condor" camera crew was present for this rare occurrence and captured this spectacular scene on film.

Traveling further north, viewers are taken into the highlands of the Andes to an area of incomparably clear light, the naked plateau called the puna.

Here arid volcanos rise toward the dark sky and a whole complement of specialized animals such as the delicate deer-like vicuna, the wild guinea pig and the chinchilla survive the bitter cold of the nights and the heat of the day at 13,000 feet and higher. Enormous salt flats are landing grounds for huge populations of rare coots and flamingoes which slither on the ice of frozen lagoons.

Pass High School slates open house

Open House at Pass Christian High School is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 19 at 7 p.m.

Purpose of this affair is to afford parents, along with their sons and daughters, an opportunity to meet their children's teachers and to review the curriculum offered at the school.

At the front entrance of the school, parents will be requested to register and will receive a copy of their child's schedule.

From there everyone will report to the auditorium for remarks and directions for the evening by Principal Adrian Swann.

Activities will close with refreshments and entertainment in the cafeteria by the high school band and chorus.

Story Hour titles listed

Pre-school children and their parents are invited to attend story hour every Thursday at 10:30 a.m. at City-County Library in Bay St. Louis.

Story hour is a program of children's books, films and activities geared for three to six-year-olds, says Becky Mitchell, children's librarian.

This week story hour begins with "Maggie and the Pirate" by Ezra Jack Keats. "Touch Your Nose," a physical activity, will be taught between stories. The second story read will be "The Three Billy Goats Gruff" by Maricla Brown. The program will conclude with the motion picture film "Mr. Frog went a-courting."

Circus to play Gulfport Tuesday

Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. Circus is a city which moves by night. Colorfully painted trucks and semi-trailers will roll quietly into Gulfport while the town sleeps.

Construction begins at 7 a.m. as the enormous sea of canvas and miles of cable and rope are transformed into the gigantic tent arena called the "Big Top."

By noon, the mobile city will be established in its new location at Jones Park on US-90 and 24th Street for one day.

Cast and crew members bring their homes with them, living during the circus season in self-contained travel trailers and motor homes complete with air conditioners and color television sets.

Life "on the road" is rigorous, thought. With 15 shows a week, there are no days off during the circus' annual 100-city odyssey across the United States.

Showtimes are 4:30 and 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 19 in Gulfport.

Chinese cookery enchants me, with its contrasts of texture and flavor — and one of my favorite Chinese dishes is Sweet and Sour Pork.

Some years ago, when I cooked it for the first time, one of my small sons turned up his already up-turned Irish Pug nose and said, "Ugh, this tastes sweet but it's sort of sour, too." He soon learned to relish the sauce, once he recovered from the initial shock.

This dish can be prepared ahead of time for the most part, and you can finish it at the table in a chafing dish or other utensil with ruffles and flourishes, if you wish. It's an excellent choice, in larger quantity, of course, for a buffet supper or luncheon, and served without the rice, is an excellent appetizer. Here's Pepper, salt (optional)

1 green pepper
Small piece of ginger, or dash of powdered ginger
Hot cooked rice

Cut the pork into small cubes or strips, as you prefer, and coat with a flour and milk batter. Heat the oil, and brown the pork for just a few minutes, then drain the pan and set the pork aside.

Combine the vinegar and syrup, add the mustard, mixed together with the brown sugar, then add the ginger.

Blend the cornstarch with the water, and add this to the pot.
Bring the whole mixture to a good rolling boil, stirring madly the while, and cook for three or four minutes. Set aside from the fire while you saute a green pepper, cut into rings or chunks, in a little oil. Toss in the pork and pineapple chunks, and top with the sweet and sour sauce. Simmer several minutes. Serve over hot fluffy rice. (Four to six servings).

I often buy a quarter loin pork roast, slice off chops for another meal or so, and cut the remaining meat into chunks for the sweet and sour pork dish. At other times I use pork chops instead of the tenderloin.

McGehee attends California meet

Dr. Helen McGehee, MD of Waveland attended the recent Annual Scientific Assembly of the American Academy of Family Physicians in San Francisco, Calif.

More than 4,000 family physicians from around the country attended the contin-ing medical education meeting, McGehee said recently.

The Waveland physician, who is a member of the academy, heard renowned speakers discuss up-to-the-minute health care topics. She also attended clinical seminars on 31 different topics and viewed some 100 scientific and 483 technical exhibits.

Subjects covered in this four-day scientific session included hypertension, aging, diabetes, arthritis, marriage counseling, and denial in alcoholism.

The American Academy of Family Physicians, headquartered in Kansas City, is a national association representing the country's family doctors.

The organization is the pioneer among medical groups in requiring its members to take continuing medical education. Its 53,000 members must complete 150 hours of mandatory continuing study every three years.
